Former Nurse Contractor and Detention Officer Sergeant Arrested in Contraband Investigation at the Fulton County Jail

ATLANTA, GA – A former nurse contractor and a detention officer sergeant were arrested during an ongoing contraband investigation by the Fulton County Sheriff's Office Jail Investigations Unit (JIU) on August 29, 2024.

- Juanita Calloway, former NaphCare nurse, age 48, charged with: four counts of conspiracy to commit a felony; four counts possession of prohibited items by inmate or providing prohibited items to inmate
- Lorna Heath, FCSO Detention Officer Sergeant, age 57, charged with: one count of unauthorized possession of prohibited item by inmate; one count violation of oath by public officer

In 2023, Calloway was working as a nurse for NaphCare assigned to the Fulton County Jail. She was dismissed from the facility after an inappropriate relationship with a resident was discovered. The investigation revealed a conspiracy relating to cell phones involving Sgt. Heath in the jail earlier this year, which led to today's arrests.

At least one current resident was charged with conspiracy to commit a felony and possession of prohibited items by inmate or providing prohibited items to inmate related to this case.

"The diligent work of our Jail Investigations Unit is to be commended," says Sheriff Patrick "Pat" Labat. "These arrests are sending a message that criminal activity will not be tolerated in our facility. The JIU will continue to go after these bad actors."
